

When seconds count...

When seconds count and help is minutes away, patent pending JustinKase is there for the added protection of students and staff. Unlike other products, JustinKase does not allow a door to open even when door locks are completely compromised by gunfire. This allows extra time for emergency personnel to arrive on scene.

The JustinKase swing out door arm slides into the holder, affixed to the door and hooks over the door frame to secure the door from being swung open.

